Around WCHS In 180 Days

We started the first day of school as enthusiastic and excited as Phileas Fogg as he started his journey around the world in eighty days. Our journey at WCHS was to last one hundred and eighty days. Challenging lessons, enjoyable parties, practices for athletics, band, chorus, drama presentations and many other happenings rounded out our year. Times of discouragement such as receiving a bad grade on a crucial test, losing the sectional, working all night to finish a research paper by the deadline, and many others were counteracted by a good grade on a hard test, tying for basketball conference champions, a perfect season in cross country, and having fun in the classroom or in the halls.

As May approached, our thoughts turned back to look at our journey which was almost past. With mixed emotions we finally said good-bye to the one hundred and eighty days we had spent around WCHS in the year 1971-1972.

The Wind May Be Spirited but

Not As Spirited As the 1972 Seniors

Someone New Around WCHS— Ann Palfreyman

Ann's American sister Joan introduces her to the excitement of basketball games.

Ann refers to her cook book, a gift from the student body, to learn how to cook unfamiliar American Food.

Below: Proudly pointing to the Australian emblem, Ann tells about her homeland.

Ann Palfreyman, from Tasmania, Australia, was new around WCHS this year. Ann spent the year in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Peters as a participant of the American Field Service International Scholarship. She studied Government, Economics, U.S. History, Current Problems, Typing, and Physical Education. Ann joined FHA, GAA, Chorus, Sunshine Society, and Cheerblock as well as sat in on Student Council meetings.

Ann said of her stay here, "I really love this little town and will always think of it as my second home. Of course it is the people that make a town and it is the people that I have come to love. I'll always remember my many 'Cobbers' here in Winamac and hope that they will remember me."

Assembly Programs and Pep Sessions at WCHS

Pep sessions and assemblies added to our days at WCHS and were looked forward to by everyone. Our assembly programs were both educational and entertaining this year. We enjoyed a variety of programs from a talk by Reverend Wicks on our goals in life to a great display of juggling by the Boone family.

The purpose of the pep sessions was to boost the spirits of both the teams and the fans. The pep sessions this year not only took place in the gymnasium but also on the football field, proving that our spirit could be found everywhere.

Reverend Wicks caught the attention of everyone with his interesting talk.

The "mad scientists" of WCHS boosted our team at sectional time.

A Crisp Fall Night Was the Setting

Queen Anne smiles happily after her coronation.

Ann Bonnell and her escort Duane Dickensheets (right).

The 1971-1972 Student Council was proud to sponsor the first Football Homecoming at WCHS on October 1, 1971. Much work and fun were put into the pre-game activities, half-time activities and the dance. Steve Reutebuch, chairman of pre-game activities, organized the honoring of parents of football players and cheerleaders. Each mother received a corsage and the fathers wore the same football number as their sons. The players and parents were introduced individually.

The half-time activities, of which Doug Capper was chairman, were what everyone had been waiting for—the coronation. After a pause of suspense, Ann Bonnell was announced Homecoming Queen for 1971-1972. Mr. Kasamis crowned Ann and presented her with a dozen red roses. The tears and kisses followed. Ann's court was as follows: Senior-Sherry McDonald, Junior-Louisa Brandt, Sophomore-Sharon Linback, and Freshman-Mary Gordon. The five girls were nominated by their respective football teams and then elected by the whole student body.

Following the game, which was a triumph over Knox 16-8, a dance was held in Ann's honor in the cafeteria. "NYR" provided the music until 11:00 p.m.

Sunken Ships and Treasure Chests

Sophomore servers dressed as pirates happily assisted everyone at the Prom from the site of their sunken ship.

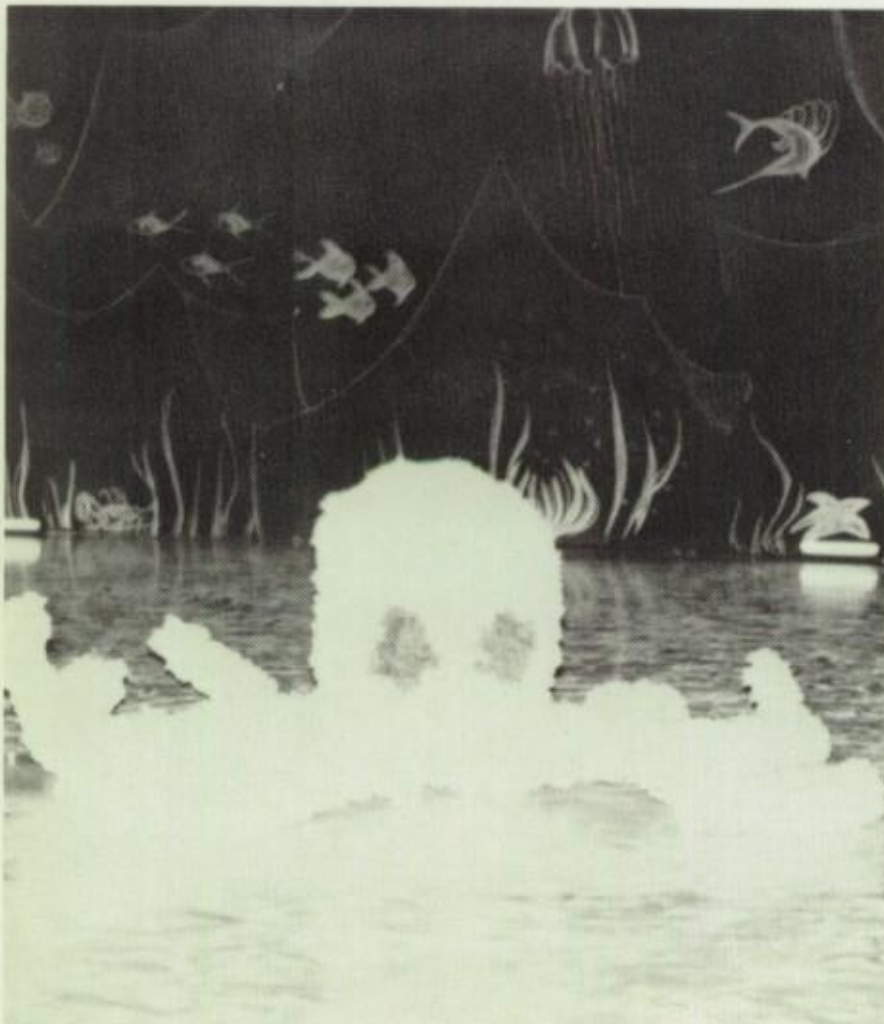

April twenty-ninth the gymnasium was transformed into a beautiful underwater wonderland. Black lights illuminated painted fish on the walls and made them come alive. A fountain was flowing in the corner and a mean looking octopus sat in the middle surveying the beautiful girls and handsome guys.

Mr. Kasamis crowned the Royalty of the 1972 prom—King, Mike O'Connor; Queen, Sherry McDonald; Prince, Jerry Cords; and Princess, Mary Beth Peterson.

Although the prom is over for this year, the memories will linger forever in the minds of all the juniors and seniors present.

An empty gymnasium solely supervised by a white octopus . . . is suddenly transformed into a romantic dance floor.

119 Graduates Complete Their Journey

THE GRADUATING CLASS OF 1972.

Richard Conn delivers his valedictory address to the graduating seniors.

Steve Housinger was the first speaker at graduation when he gave his salutatory address.

Around WCHS on May 21, 1972

May 21, 1972, was a very special day to the seniors—graduation. When 8:00 p.m. came there were one hundred nineteen new graduates and many varied sentiments.

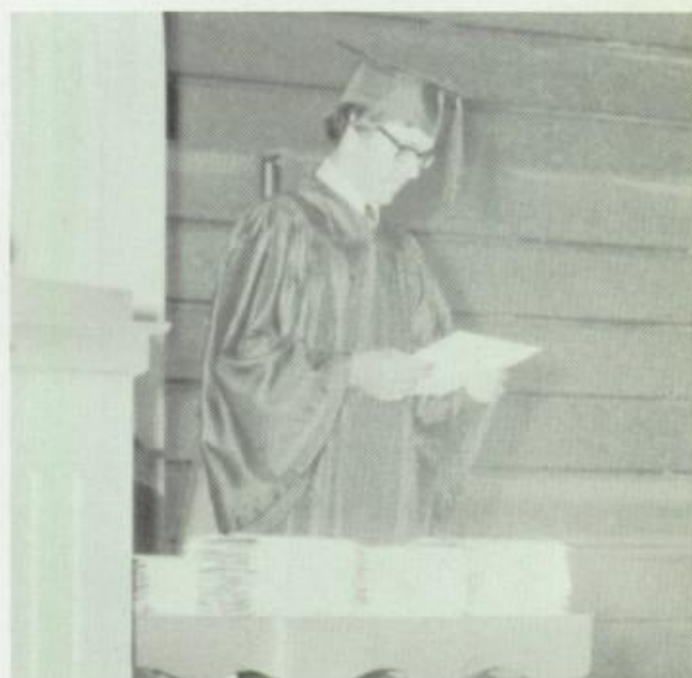

This year was the first year a valedictorian and a salutatorian were chosen. Dick Conn, valedictorian, gave a speech on what we may look forward to in life and Steve Housinger, salutatorian, talked on our past, present, and future.

Many scholarships were given to chosen seniors. Diane Fites and Steve Housinger received the Carper scholarships. Kaye Hughes, Bethra Weida, Richard Conn, and Steve Reutebuch received the Brown scholarships. The winner of the Bonnell scholarship was John Gordon; the Teachers' Association scholarship was awarded to JoAnne Miller; the Jaycee's scholarship winner was Teresa DeLorenzo; and the Rotary Club winner was Thomas Cloud. Two new scholarships were awarded this year. The Scott March Scholarship went to Tim Roth and the Jaycee Wives' Scholarship went to Michael O'Connor and Sandra Austin, alternate.

The class of 1972 chose blue and green as its colors and a blue carnation as its flower. The Seniors of '72 will always remember their graduation day and have many fond memories of life at WCHS.

Honors Are Given to Many in Reward for Hard

Mike proudly accepts the new Robert Alt award.

Kathy appreciates the Best Citizen Award bestowed upon her.

Kaye glances around with a smile after receiving the Activities Award.

Tim gives a hearty handshake when receiving his Activities Award.

Work and Much Toil Throughout the Year

On May 11, 1972, all WCHS students gathered in the gymnasium for Honors Day. Many awards were presented and many smiles were flashed. Among some of the awards were the citizenship award, the activities award, and the best athlete of the year.

The citizenship award was made to Duane Dickensheets and Kathy Brennan. This award was voted on by the students. The activities award went to Kaye Hughes and Tim Roth. This award was based upon all the activities a senior had been in throughout his or her high school career. The best athlete was Terry Schultz—voted by all boys in athletics. The “Robert Alt Award,” a new award for the athlete with the best academic record, was presented to Mike Smith.

Many smaller awards were given in areas of sports, organizational activities, and classroom participation.

Other awards were presented to outstanding WCHS students throughout the year. The “Voice of Democracy” award was presented to Delbert May, Darrell White, and Sandra Austin. The “Most Valuable Football Player Award” went to Terry Schultz. Awards for presence on the honor roll four of the first five grading periods were also made.

Terry Schultz receives the “Best Athlete Award” from Mr. Kasamis for his work in sports throughout the year.

Voice of Democracy Award Recipients: Sandra Austin, third place; Darrell White, second place; and Delbert May, first place winner.

John Gordon receives the “Most Valuable Staffer Award” from a member of the Tribune staff in recognition of his great work as editor of the Student Cycle.

ACADEMICS

Debates, Papers, Discussions, Themes

Ruth studiously concentrates all her efforts toward the completion of her theme for junior English.

Delbert emphasizes the importance of making a point clear by the use of properly placed gestures.

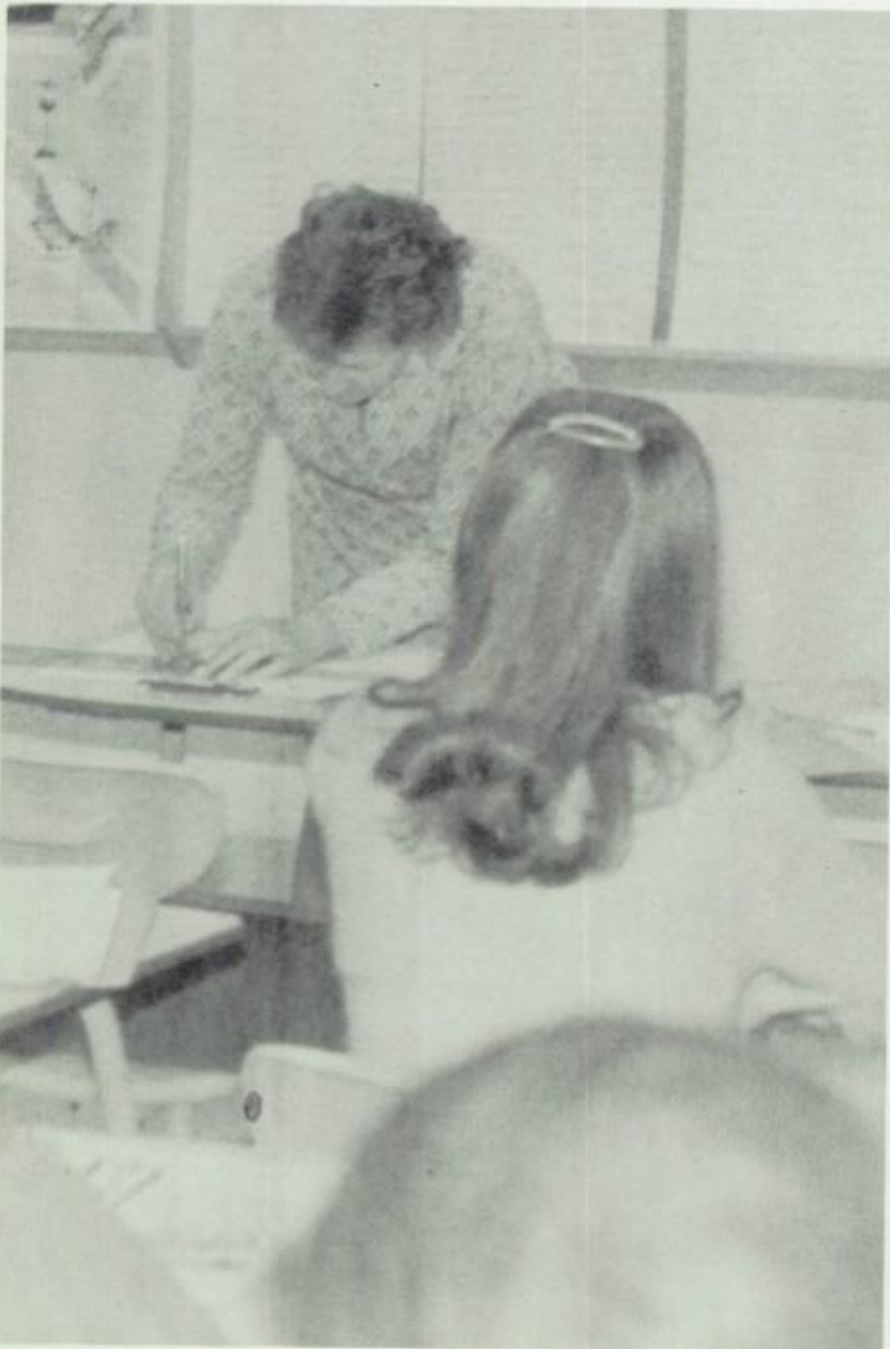

The entire speech class looks on as Beth records her "Voice of Democracy" entry.

Keep Students Busy

English, literature, speech, and drama kept the students' minds alert this year. English taught the pupils to use their creativity to the fullest as they searched for ideas to put into themes. The study of authors and different types of writing required much of the students' attention to retain what had been read. Besides, that, the teachers had projects such as children's books and collages to keep the classes interesting.

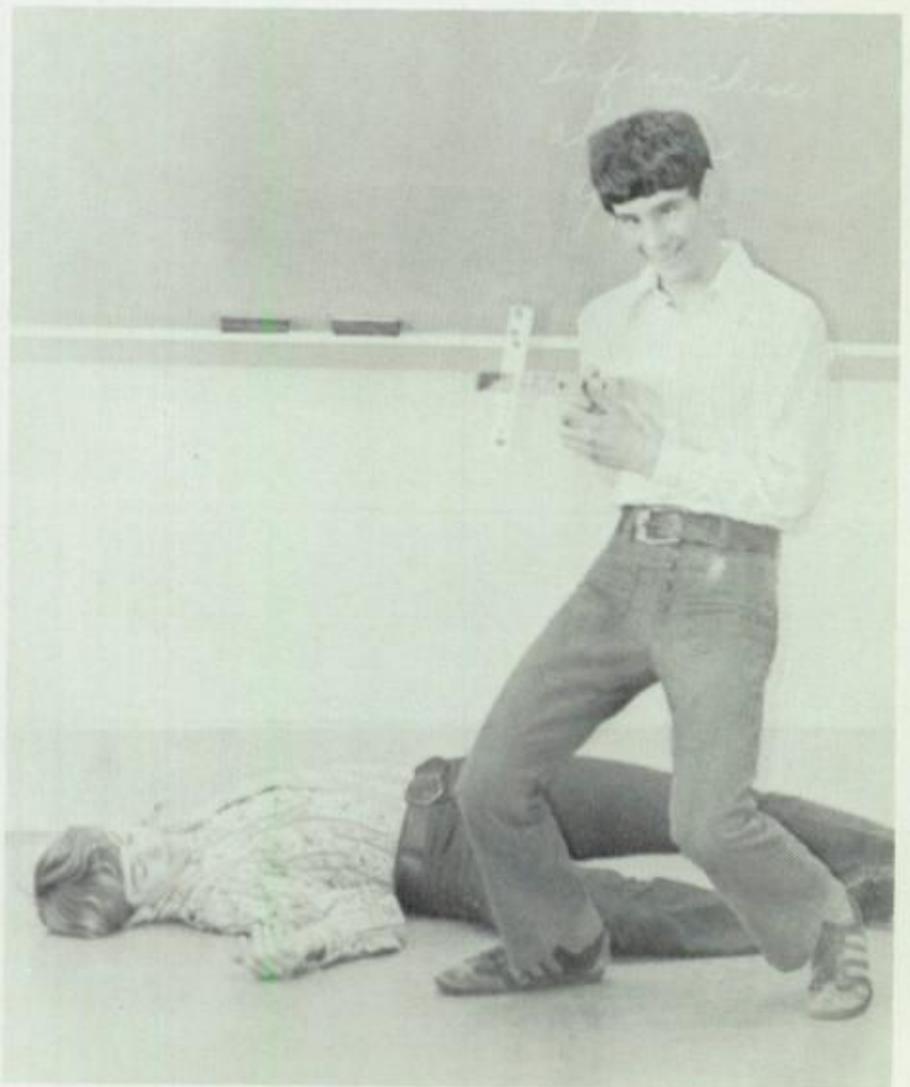

Speech and drama gave the students more confidence and poise when facing a group. The students were taught how to prepare and deliver a speech effectively and the proper technique of acting. Such projects as entering the Voice of Democracy contest and learning dramatic monologues made the classes challenging.

Mrs. Hughes demonstrates the art of assembling a children's book to senior English students as they plan their own books.

Mrs. Stoudt is always ready and willing to explain the problems of English I to her students.

The sophomores gain a better understanding of "Julius Caesar" as it is acted out with Mick and Brad as Titinius and Cassius.

New Problems Are Uncovered Every Day By

June watches while Julie prepares their biology experiment.

This year freshmen on the academic course took biology, while freshmen on other courses took applied science. The biology students studied biology in detail, while students taking applied science studied a broader aspect of the subject.

Juniors who took physics learned, among other things, to use a slide rule. The study of physics was concerned with the mathematics of science. Labs and demonstrations of learned concepts highlighted the year.

Chemistry was the physical side of science. It dealt with chemical equations and important laws of matter. Seniors taking chemistry performed various experiments, sometimes to the dismay of students in nearby classrooms.

It can't smell that bad, Janet—or can it?

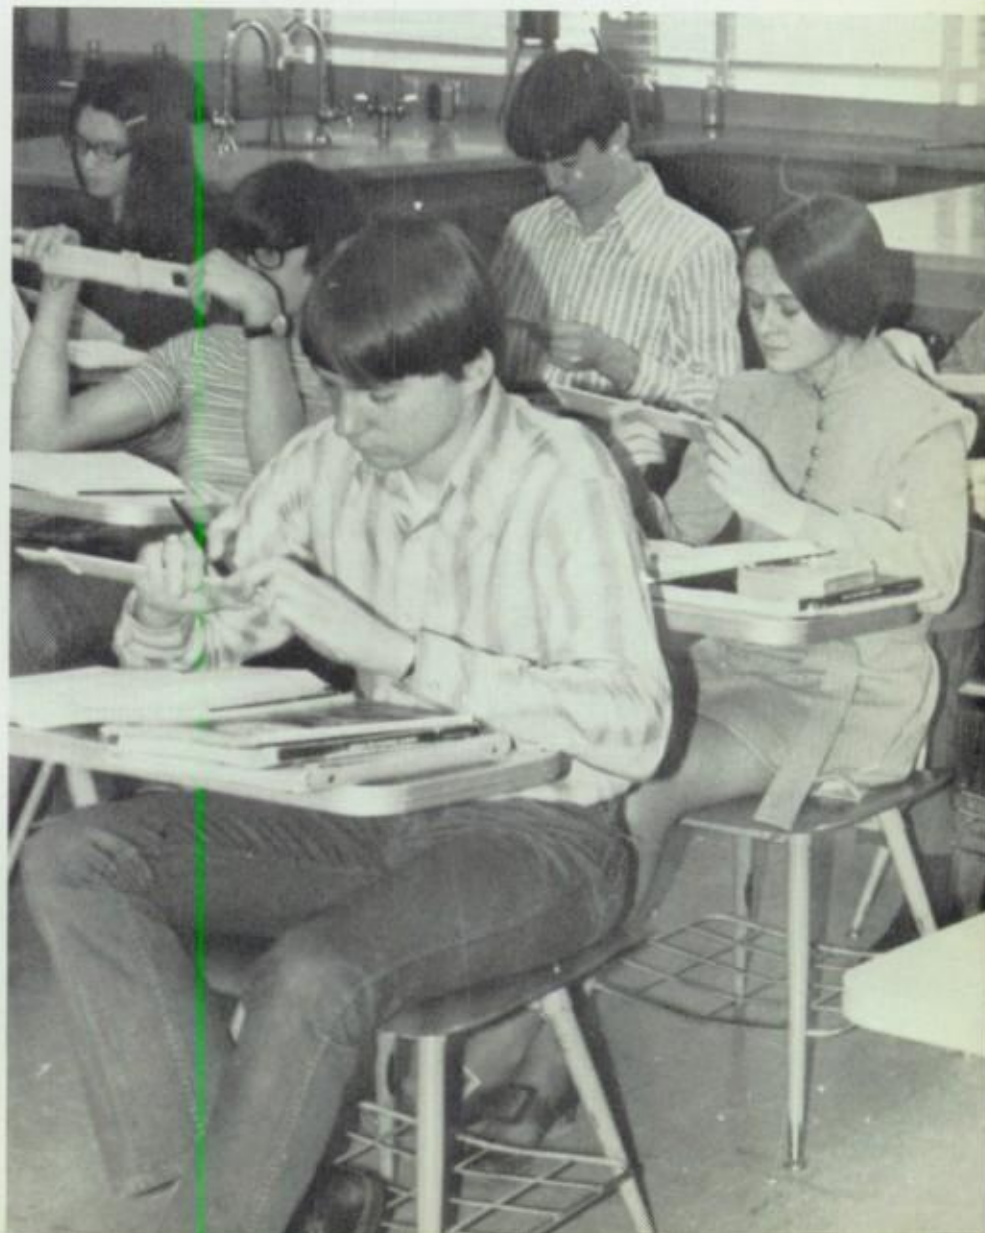

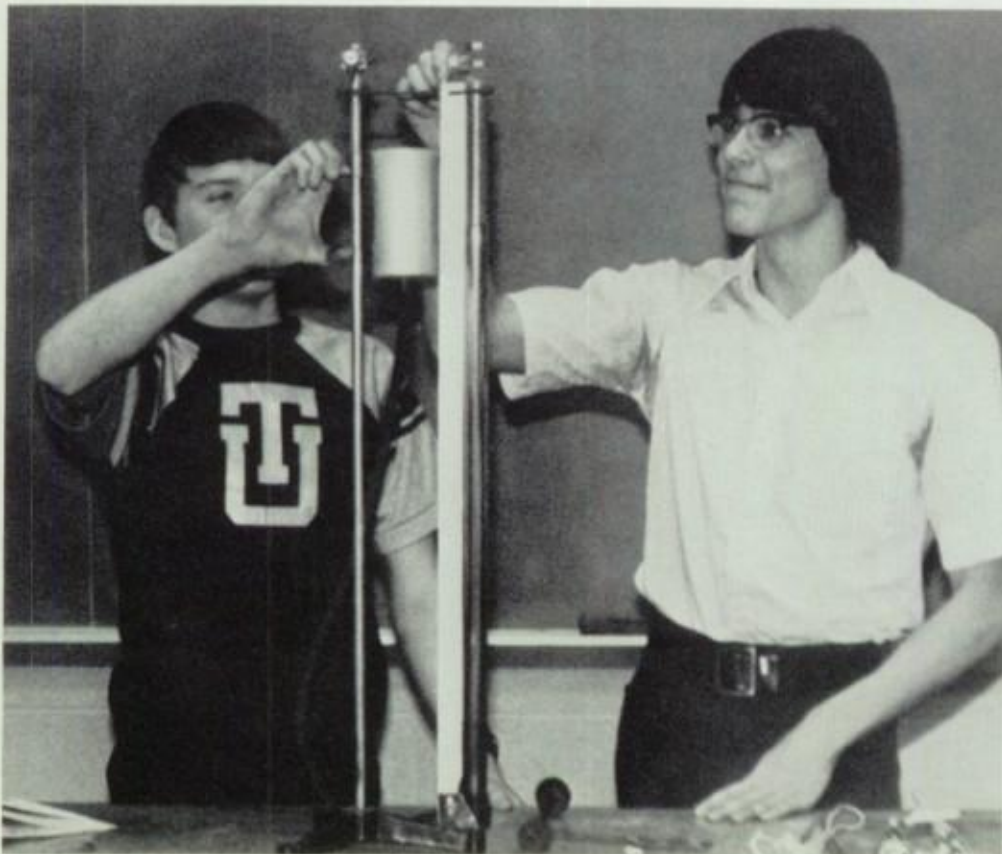

The Mad Scientists of WCHS

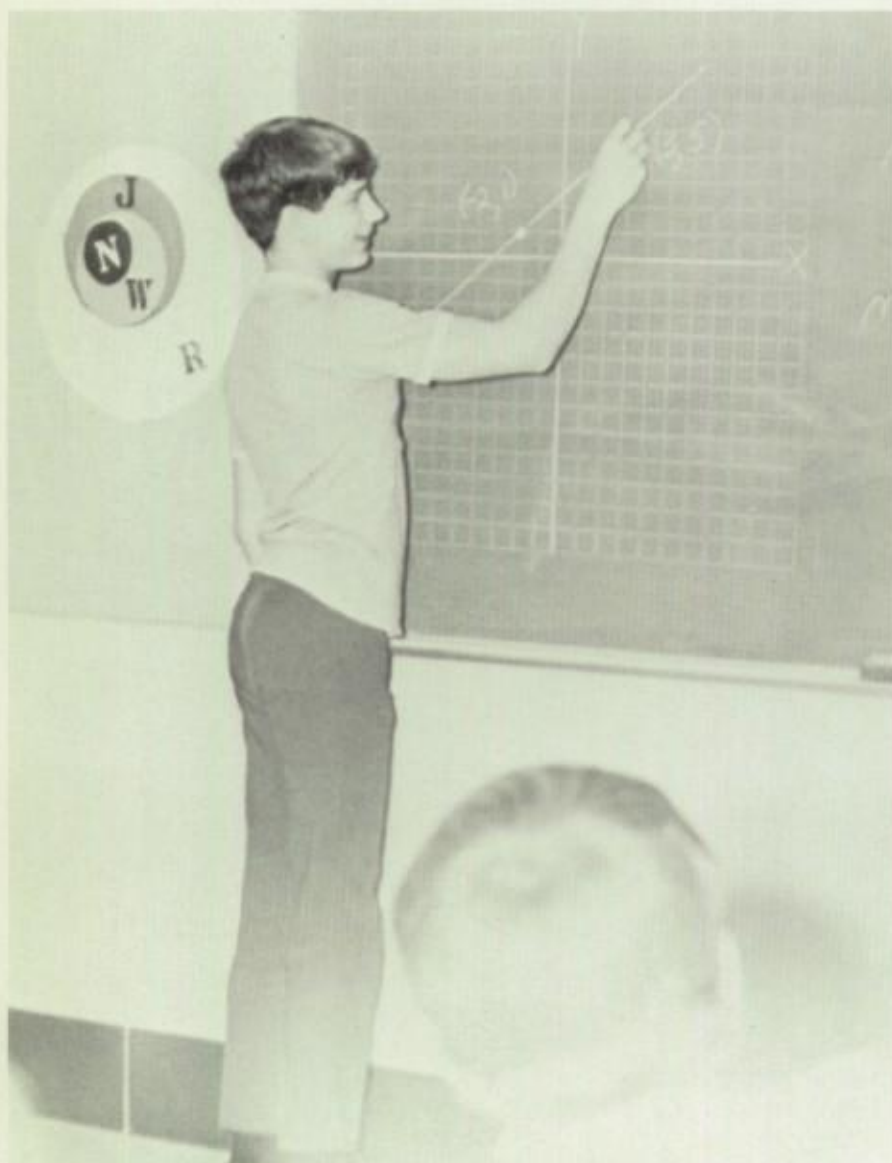

The variety of projects at WCHS Science Fair attract many curious and interested spectators.

These amateur physicists work out problems on a student's best friend—the slide rule.

Terry uses a tuning fork as part of an experiment that he and Phil perform for the physics class.

Difficult Problems Are Solved By Mathematics Students Each Day of the Year

Mathematics included a variety of subjects this year. These were algebra, general math, geometry, advanced algebra, and advanced math.

Algebra introduced unsuspecting freshmen to equations, positive and negative numbers, and other such perplexities. Advanced algebra, for juniors who have overcome algebra I, was involved with basically the same concepts as algebra I at a higher and more advanced level.

General math covered the basic parts of mathematics and was a general review of previous math learned; however, the students did learn some new ideas also.

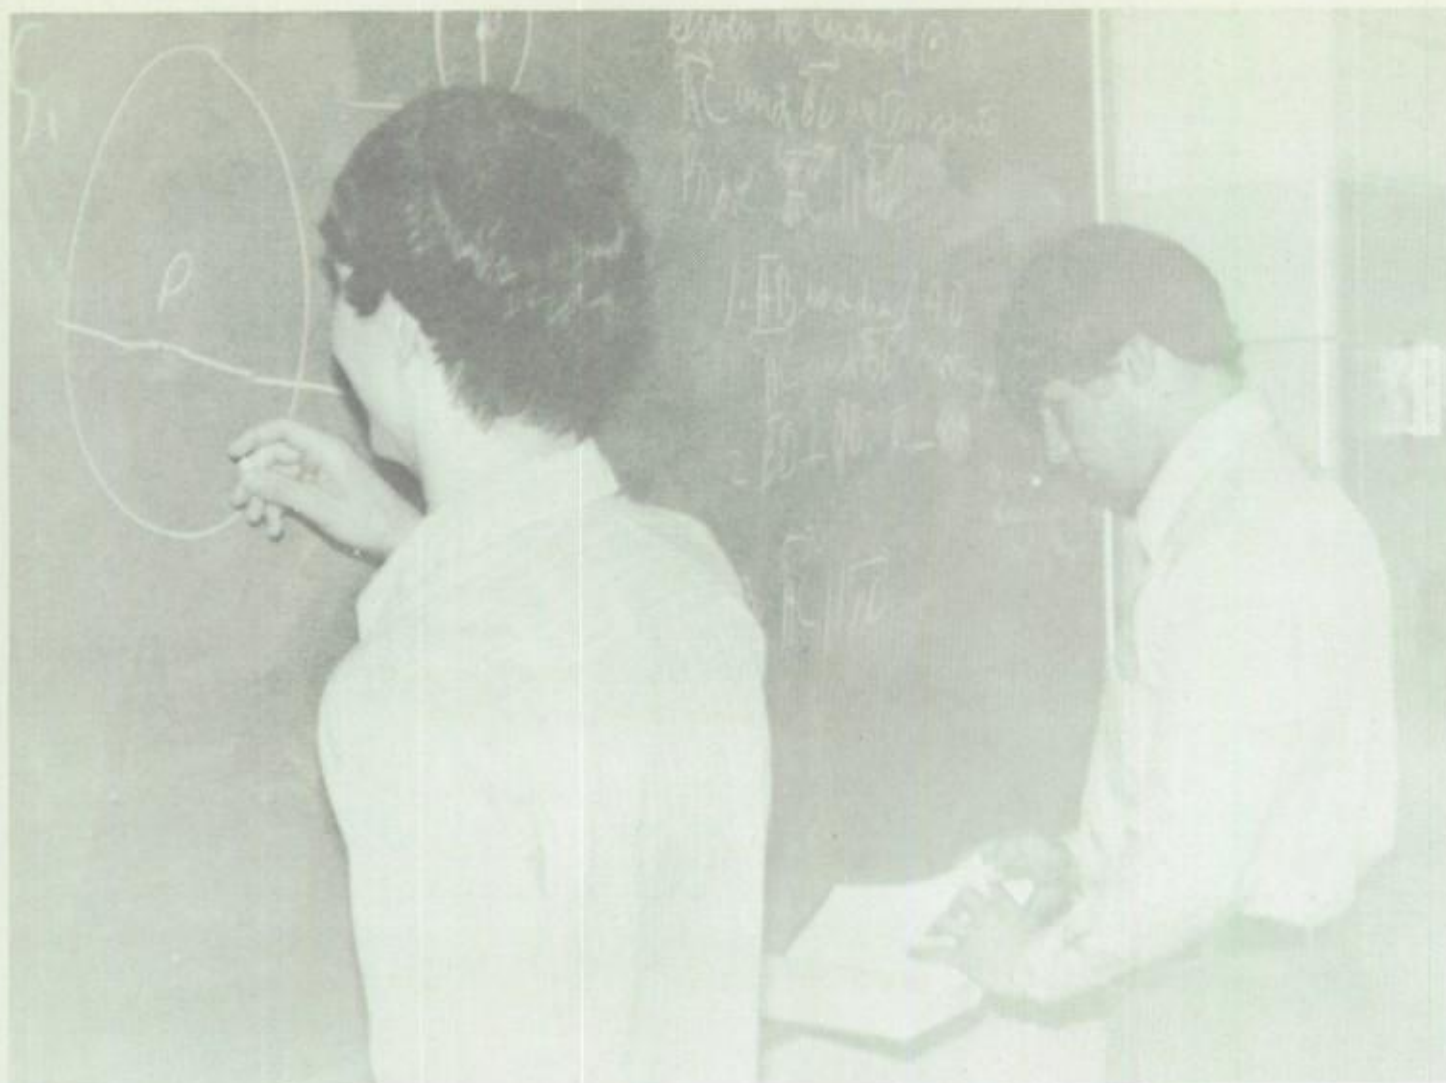

Geometry taught the students about points, lines, and different shapes, as well as the graphing of each.

For the seniors who had managed to make their way through these various other subjects, there was advanced math. It taught them probability and trigonometry as well as reviewed the work learned in advanced algebra.

Pete uses the graph to show the use of slopes and the location of points, a new concept in algebra.

Gary takes time to smile for the camera while his classmates concentrate on advanced math.

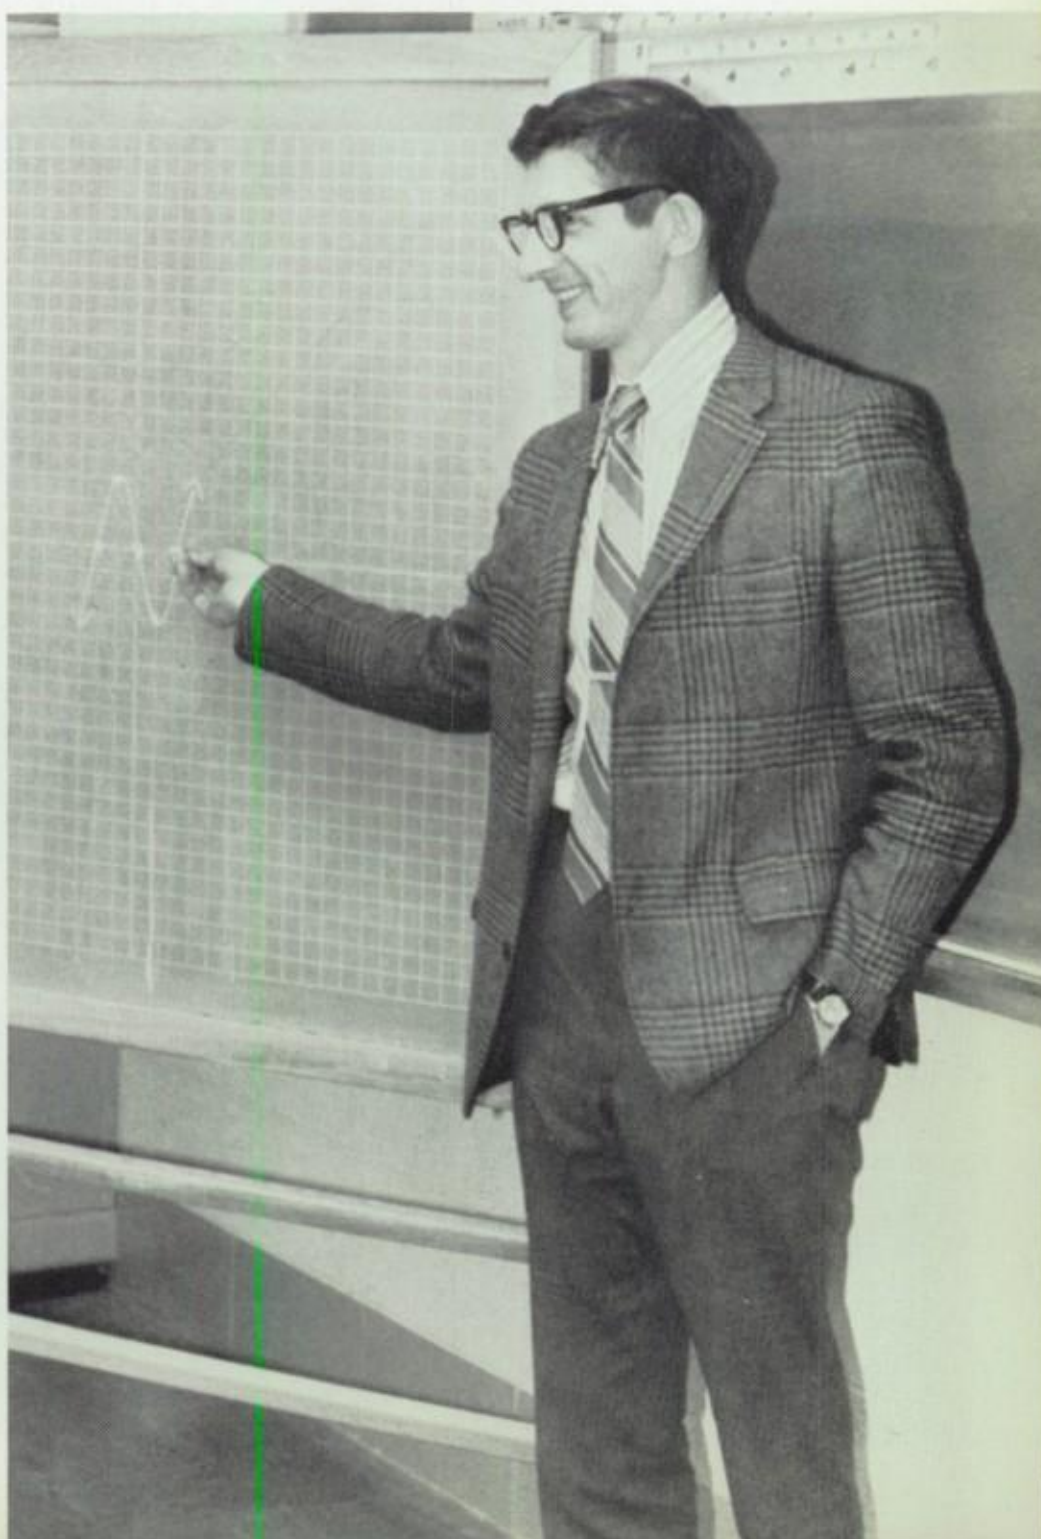

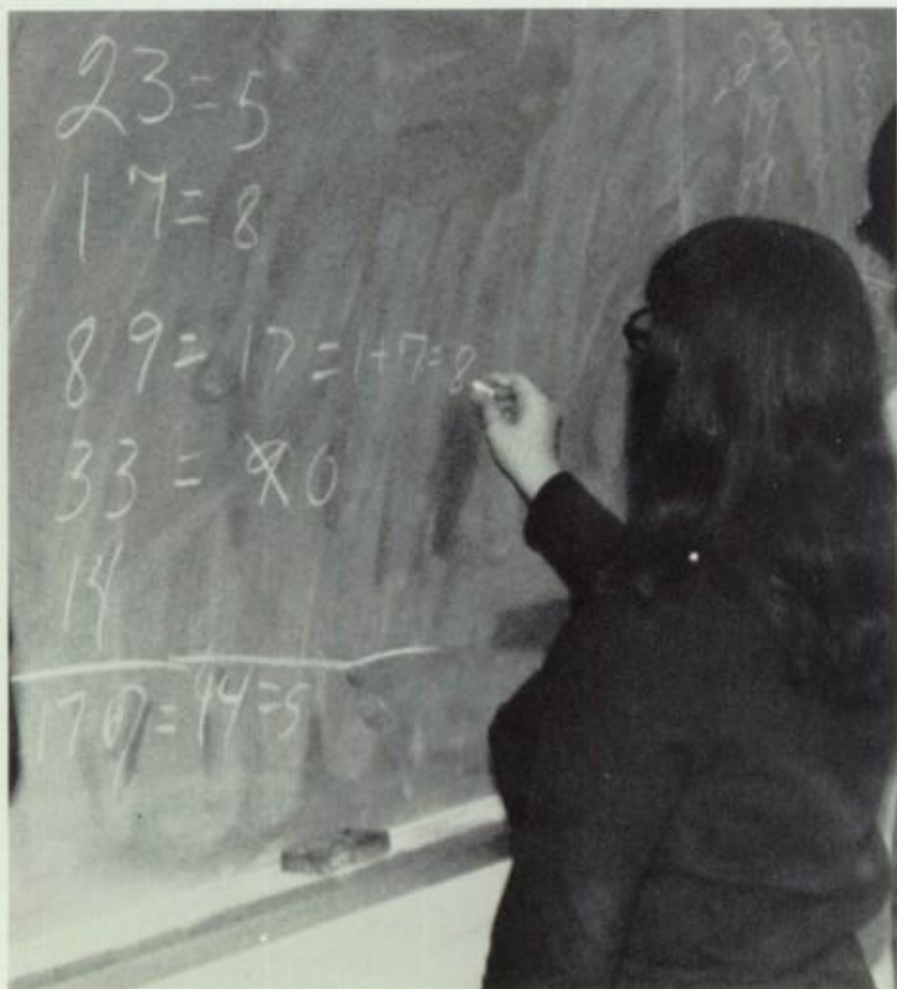

$$a^2 + b^2 = c^2$$

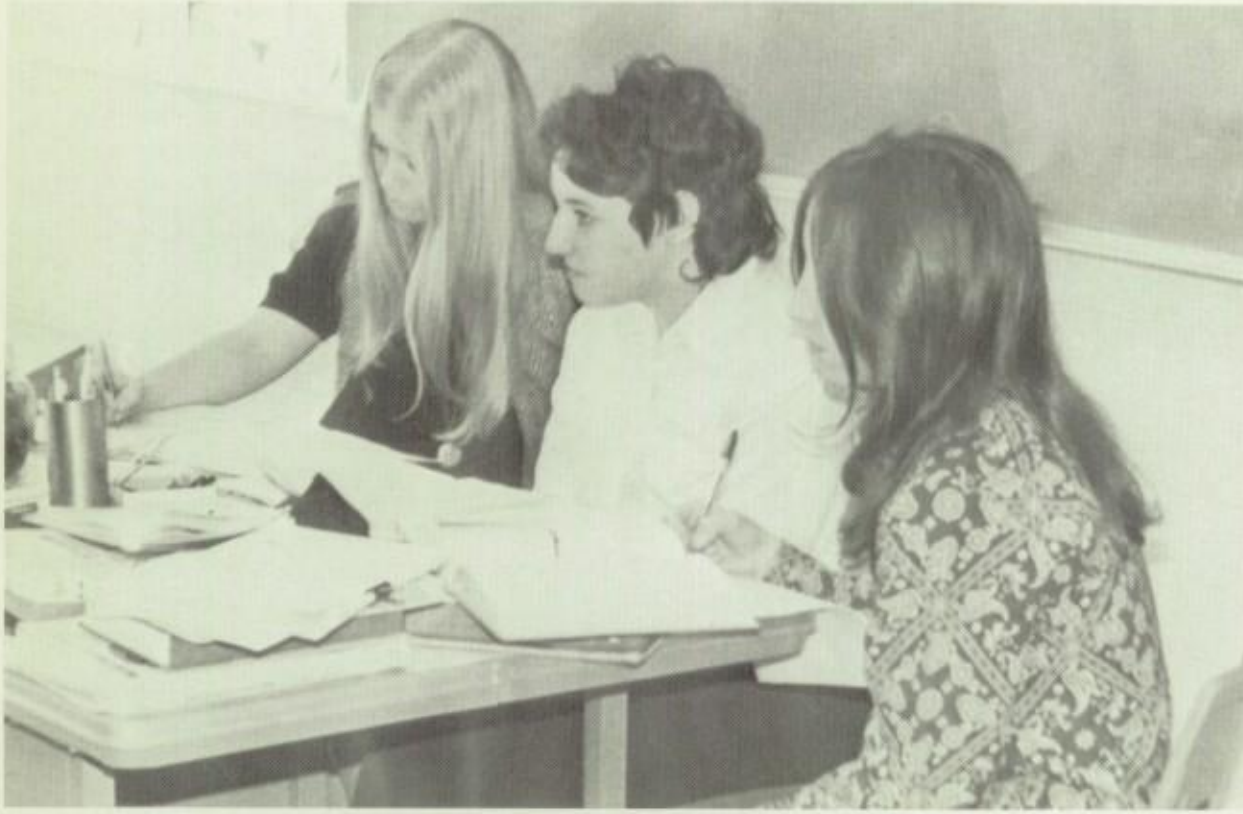

These geometry students graph their homework on the board for the benefit of the class.

Mr. Wentz plots the points on a graph as an example of curves for his advanced algebra students.

A typical day in general math finds the students at the board working problems.

The Making of the Business World —

Amy, Kathy, and Sherry look very serious as they teach office practice class.

Trudy, Pam, and Terri cooperate on finishing a study guide for business law.

Through Thought, Energy, and Know-How

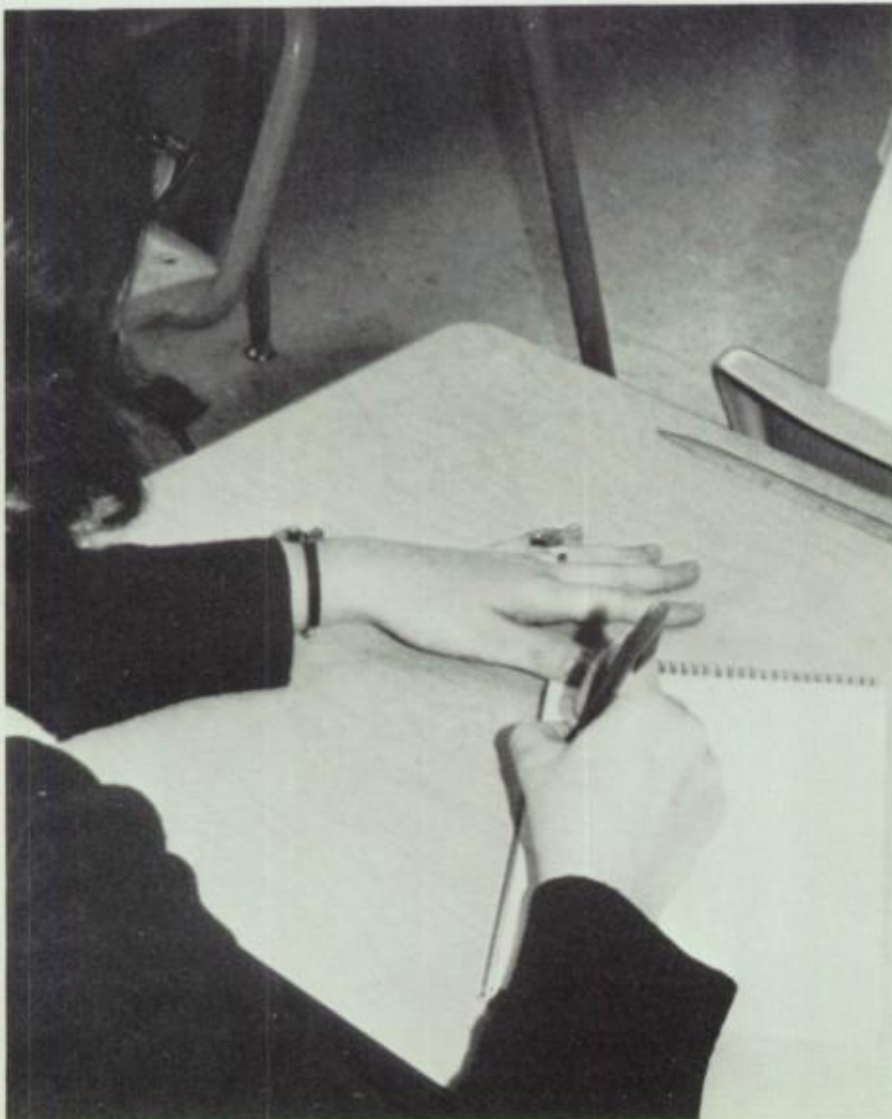

On our way around WCHS we came across another important course besides the academic course—business. The students in those classes prepared themselves for their future work.

Some of the classes involved in this course were typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, business English and law, office practice, and general business.

These classes gave the students a preview of what was held for them in their future and also provided the background and knowledge necessary for the work.

Taking dictation takes many hours of memorization and practice as Bethra could tell you.

Mrs. Mitchell shows her beginning bookkeeping class a model of a work sheet.

Caught ya! Sue and Rusty stop for a moment to talk during their busy day of work.

Latin and Spanish: Our Foreign Languages

These students work in the lab to further their knowledge of advanced Spanish.

Four years of Spanish were offered at WCHS. Freshmen learned vocabulary, grammar rules, and verb tenses. Sophomores reviewed, and then advanced to new aspects of the language such as the perfect tense. The third and fourth year Spanish class was made up of six juniors and four seniors. These brave souls read short stories and reviewed any forgotten rules or verb tenses.

Only two years of Latin were offered this year at WCHS. Latin I students, like Spanish students, were taught the basics of Latin grammar. Students of Latin II having been introduced to the basics, began by reexamining what they had learned. They then proceeded to study Julius Caesar, through frequent reading of his works and life.

Bonnie Master and Gloria Hunter show the projects they made for Latin class.

Home Ec. Prepares For Future Homemakers

Home economics I introduced the girls to cooking. They were taught the basic fundamentals of preparing a balanced meal economically.

The sophomore girls learned more basic sewing skills. The girls were required to make something with a zipper, buttons, buttonholes, and set-in sleeves. This gave them the fundamentals for future sewing ventures.

The girls were taught how to furnish a home in home economics III. They learned about such things as decorating a home economically and attractively. This provided helpful tips for when they become homemakers.

In their final year of home economics the senior girls reviewed the skills they had accumulated as well as learned new ones. The girls were divided into groups. Each group was given a chance to plan and prepare a meal. While one group did this, the other girls worked on such projects as knitting and crocheting. The girls were also required to sew something they had never tried before. They were also taught how to choose and prepare meats properly.

All in all, by the time the girls had completed home economics IV they had learned sewing and cooking as well as other skills such as furnishing a home, knitting, and crocheting. These girls were very well prepared to become homemakers in the future.

Pattie and Bonnie demonstrate the proper way to prepare yeast rolls.

Each Day the Knowledge of Our World Is

These seniors study hard in order to grasp a better understanding of government and economics.

Social studies at WCHS included a wide range of subjects. Current problems was among these. The class was just what you might expect—a study of problems of today's world. Class reports on black culture, the religions of the world and other important areas kept the class well informed.

World history, the other choice for sophomores, offered a history of the entire world. Bulletin boards and occasional plays kept the class lively as well as interesting.

The juniors were kept busy with U.S. history this year. They learned of the background of their country and what it took to gain and retain their freedoms. Several junior and senior students were selected to be on the Quest program this year. In this program the students did research papers on a specific area of interest to them and pertaining to their class.

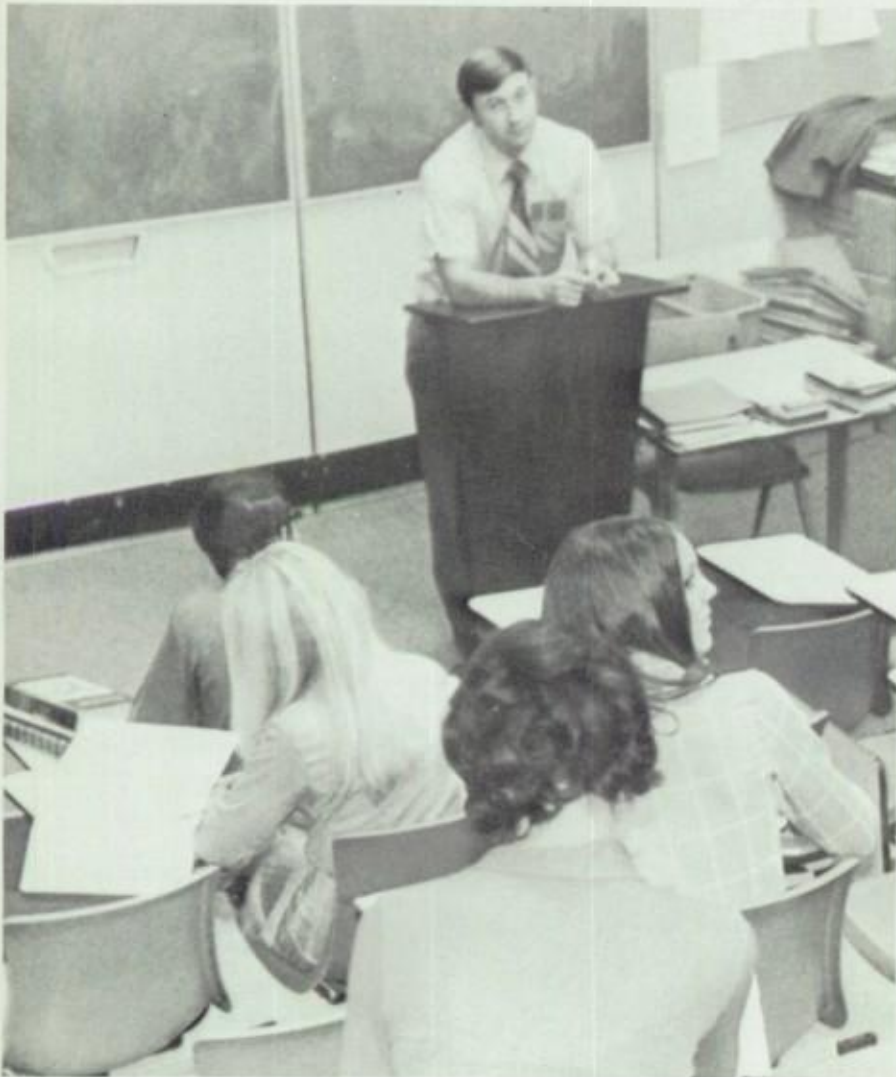

Government and economics made the seniors aware of the working of the government. Economics taught them how the economic system of the U.S. works, while government specialized in the laws and offices of our land.

Psychology and sociology were informative for the eight juniors and twenty-nine seniors. These subjects gave the students insight into human behavior. They learned about some of the problems and prejudices of society.

Ag., Shop, and Graphic Arts Prove Very

Mr. Jones watches Terry as he prepares a blueprint plan.

Mr. Kroft explains the workings of this rebuilt engine to Bob DeSabatine and Paul Brucker.

Enjoyable As Well As Informative

Agriculture, shop, and graphic arts proved very useful to the boys taking these classes. They provided an excellent background for those who planned careers in the fields of farming, printing, conservation, forestry, construction, etc.

Even those boys who were not planning a career in any of these areas benefited from the classes. They gained practical knowledge for everyday living. For example, the bottom picture on the opposite page shows two students examining the engine of a truck. This gave the students an idea of how an engine works, something which will be useful in their lifetime.

The boys also learned how to create useful items such as clocks, record cabinets, gun racks, and many other items. These items were very handy and were put to good use.

Dale eyes the camera instead of his partner who is demonstrating the proper technique of sanding wood.

Ed Cloud examines the type carefully before the printing is begun.

Phys. Ed. Builds Character and Muscles

Most people think of physical education as "around the gym in 120 laps" but, as the students learned, it is not just exercises.

The classes participated in not only the usual basketball, tumbling, rugby, volleyball, and exercises; but also in expressive activities like creative dancing.

Under the supervision and examples of Miss Clark and Mr. Heath, the physical education students worked on building their muscles and character through games promoting sportsmanship and team work.

Inner feelings are exhibited in modern dancing. Here, these four girls "do their thing" to the music.

FETCH!

These phys. ed. girls work away at their assigned exercises to decrease their waistlines and improve their figures.

Future Artists of Tomorrow

The art and music classes played an important part in the elective classes offered at WCHS.

The art classes provided the means for the artistic talents of the students to be brought out and improved upon. The students worked together with Miss Myers to create many artistic objects.

The music department provided another means of self-expression for the musically inclined students. The chorus developed voices and the band developed the instrumental abilities of talented students.

These optional classes were taken by students for many reasons. Two common reasons were: for their future occupations or simply because they enjoyed these classes.

Miss Myers demonstrates the technique of shaping clay as Elaine Oechsle looks on.

The concert choir follows the old saying of "Practice makes perfect" as they prepare for their public performances.

These four band members rehearse their contest piece for the Varsity Band.

A-V and Library Aids Make School Fun

Books, magazines, pamphlets, films, records, tapes, filmstrips, transparencies, and pictures were all a part of the library facilities. Students seemed to circulate the materials fast enough to keep the library helpers busy. Hard work on term papers and projects caused headaches for everyone, but pleasure reading or listening to tapes was a relaxing diversion. Materials for bulletin boards and visual aids of all sorts were provided by the Audio-Visual Department. With the help of the A-V staff many classes were enlivened to provide more interesting classes for all.

This student enjoys filing pictures so that teachers and other students can use them for their projects.

Scott is demonstrating the pride of the A-V Department as he uses the video tape machine.

Theresa and Arlene check out books to Mick as part of their job as student librarians.

This year they produced "If a Man Answers" in the fall, and "Rebel Without a Cause" in the Spring. Much more went into the plays than the acting. The stage crew, make-up girls, and property committees were just as important. Everyone was needed to bring forth a successful production. The opportunities and fun were open to everyone.

The officers were as follows: President Doug Capper, Vice President Clint Henry, and Secretary-Treasurer Louisa Brandt.

Journalists of the Student Cycle

Press Club was an organization for all willing students who had an interest in journalism. The club consisted of fine staffs which had their individual and unique jobs. Poll staff editor Sandy Warren asked students different poll questions each week. Feature I staff editor Jamie Gordon wrote about special happenings around WCHS. Feature II editor Mike O'Connor wrote on club meetings, mystery girl or boy and heap of the week. Editor Linda Galbreath of class news kept us posted on what was going on in the classrooms and sports editor, Tim Roth kept us up to date on all sports, spring through fall.

All members, staff editors, and the editor-in-chief John Gordon worked together and produced the Student Cycle each week in the Pulaski County Journal. Mrs. Nale, the club's sponsor, lent a helping hand whenever needed.

The Three Wonders of the Music World

Varsity, Concert and Swing Choirs

The varsity choir was made up mostly of freshmen with a scattering of older students. They studied rhythms and how to read and interpret music. The concert choir was usually attained after many hours of practice in varsity choir. In this class they continued studying the many forms of music.

"The Generation" was a self-supporting organization made up of lively students who were dedicated to having fun while they sang. They entertained many organizations with their young style of singing and songs.

Band Plays Important Part at WCHS

Pep Band was a small voluntary band which played for home basketball games and at other activities.

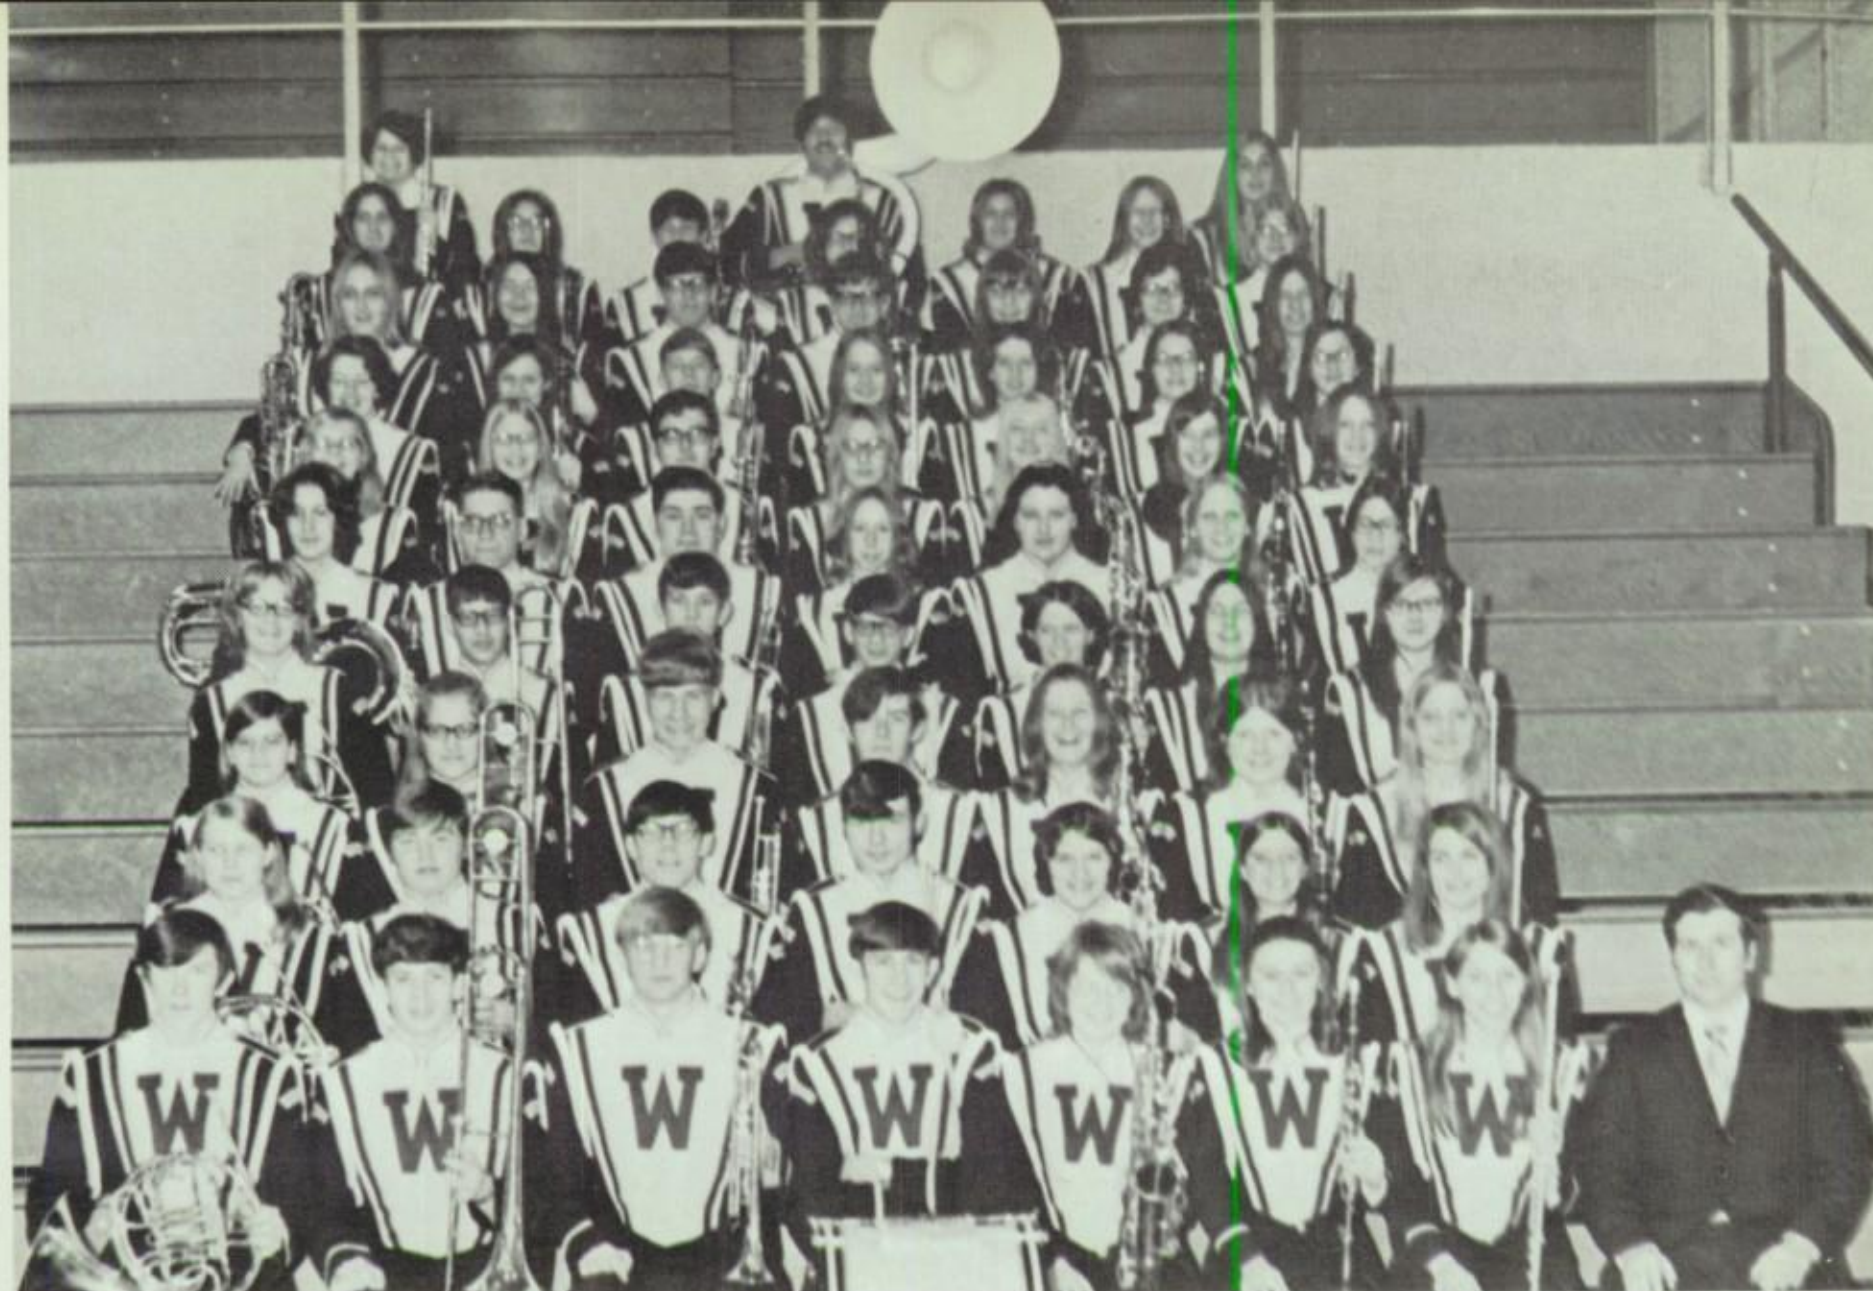

The bands of WCHS come in all shapes and sizes. The four main groups were the Concert, the Varsity, the Marching, and the Pep Bands.

The Concert Band performed in concerts and competed in the area band contest. The Varsity Band also performed at concerts. The Marching Band consisted of the Concert and Varsity Bands, and this band marched at home football games. The Marching Band competed in the Band Day activities at Ball State University.

The clue to the success of these bands all boiled down to the patience and guidance of Mr. Matthews, our director.

Around WCHS was a group of girls whose aim was to spread sunshine to all they met.

They went caroling for shut-ins, made "happy jacks" for shut-ins, donated to the Riley Fund, and just spread joy to others.

As a club, they held formal initiation, installed officers, put on a skit for pep session, and attended the meetings.

There was also a Sunshine Cabinet which consisted of the officers, two representatives from each class, and the sponsor, Mrs. Stoudt. The cabinet planned the meetings and activities in which the club participated.

The club organized a Cadette Teaching Program at the Winamac Elementary School this year. This program provided five girls to help the first grade teachers three days a week. Fifteen members went to the Area Conference at Twin Lakes High School. Many members also went to the State Convention, March 15, at Indianapolis. The club sponsored "Pixie Week," a week dedicated to the teachers. The FTA Pixies left such tokens of appreciation as red pens and apples.

Big H! Little O! o-p! Shoot it through the hoop for a victory! The Cheerblock backed the Mighty Warriors from beginning to end. These sixty-four girls faithfully attended all the home basketball games and yelled their hearts out. The Cheerblock bought new white blouses and maroon and white booster badges for the 1971-72 basketball season to back the Mighty Warriors. Sectional week was especially exciting when the Council planned special events for each day. The girls lent moral support and really boosted the Winamac Warriors to VICTORY!

Fans anxiously anticipate the next shot.

G.A.A. is an athletic association for all high school girls. The girls hold meetings every Thursday night at the elementary gym, where they discuss organization activities and play inter-squad games.

Basketball, volleyball and softball meets are held with surrounding schools. This year the team was runner-up in the basketball tournament. They ended their season with five wins and two losses. The organization provides a great opportunity for all "athletic-minded" girls. Their sponsor is Miss Clark.

Senior Tim Roth squares off against Frontier lineman.

The Football team began working toward the upcoming season in mid-August. The boys tortured their bodies under the hot August sun twice a day, while almost everyone else was at the swimming pool. The season began with the jamboree at Knox on August 28. The Warriors, Showing their superior skill, were aided by Knox and defeated Hanover Central and Caston. After being humiliated in a conference tilt with North Judson, the Warriors improved consistently while compiling a 6-3 won-lost record. At the season's end three of the stars received recognition for their outstanding play. Tim Roth was voted to the WKVI all-area team as an offensive end, Terry Housinger received honorable mention as a defensive back in the South Bend area, and Terry Schultz was named to the WKVI all-area team and also to the South Bend area honorable mention squad as fullback. Bob DeSabatine, Terry Schultz, Tim Roth, Darrell Vollmer, and Gary Spry received awards from their teammates for outstanding play. At the close of the season, Coaches Hendryx and Pugh and the boys were ready to tackle state champion Bloomington.

The Winamac Cross Country team, under the direction of Coach Jerry Jones, extended their winning streak to 22 consecutive victories. Their victories came so automatic that the question at school following a meet was not "Did you win?" but rather "How much did you win by?" The varsity Warriors defeated 57 opponents in winning 11 dual meets, the Winamac Invitational, New Prairie Invitational, Frontier Invitational, and Northwest Hoosier Conference. They also placed sixth in the Logansport Sectional. The B-team also had a fine year in helping the varsity accumulate a massive 68-6 combined total.

Gary Wilson pins his man as the referee gets up close.

This year's youthful wrestling team compiled a 1 win—8 loss record. In building for the future the team had only one senior, ten sophomores, and one freshman. Though the record was not too good, the underclassmen gained valuable experience for making the team stronger next year.

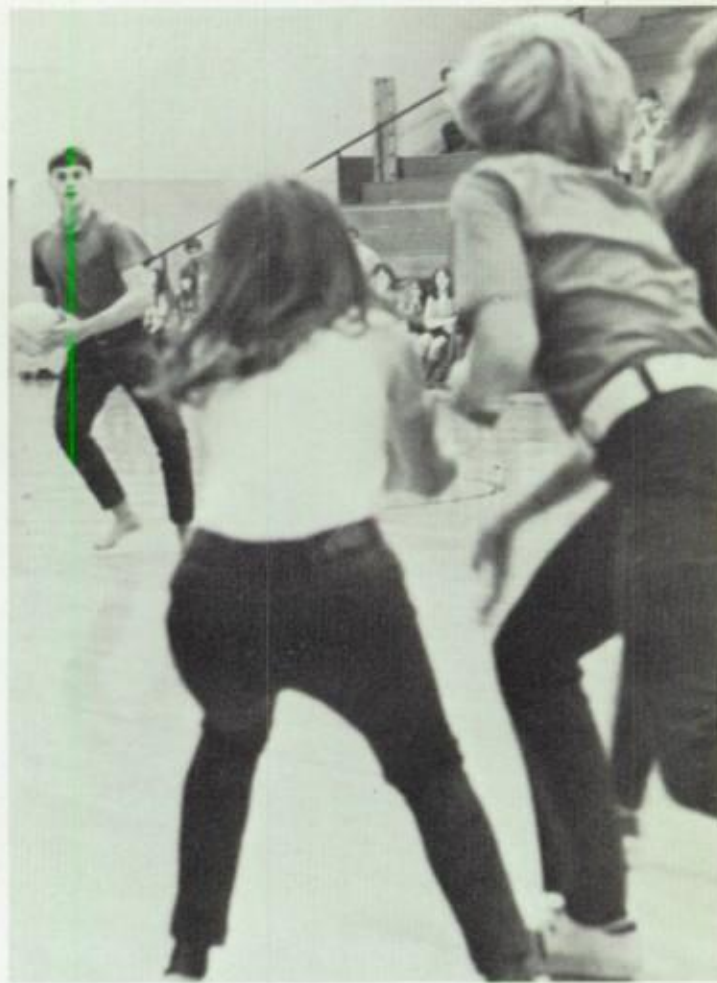

There were several outstanding individual performances. In the Northwest Hoosier Conference, Duane Rehm finished fourth; Richard Heintz, fourth; Doug Havrilesko, second; and Kerry Day was the conference champion. In the sectional Bob Maddox was fourth; Doug Havrilesko, third; Randy Neff, third, and Kerry Day, second. Kerry advanced to the first round of the regional at Twin Lakes in the 165-lb. class.

This year's hard-working, far-sighted coach was Mr. Pugh.

Intramural Sports Add Fun to Noon-Hour

Watch out, Sharon! Mr. Heath joined the women teachers' basketball team during the Christmas festivities.

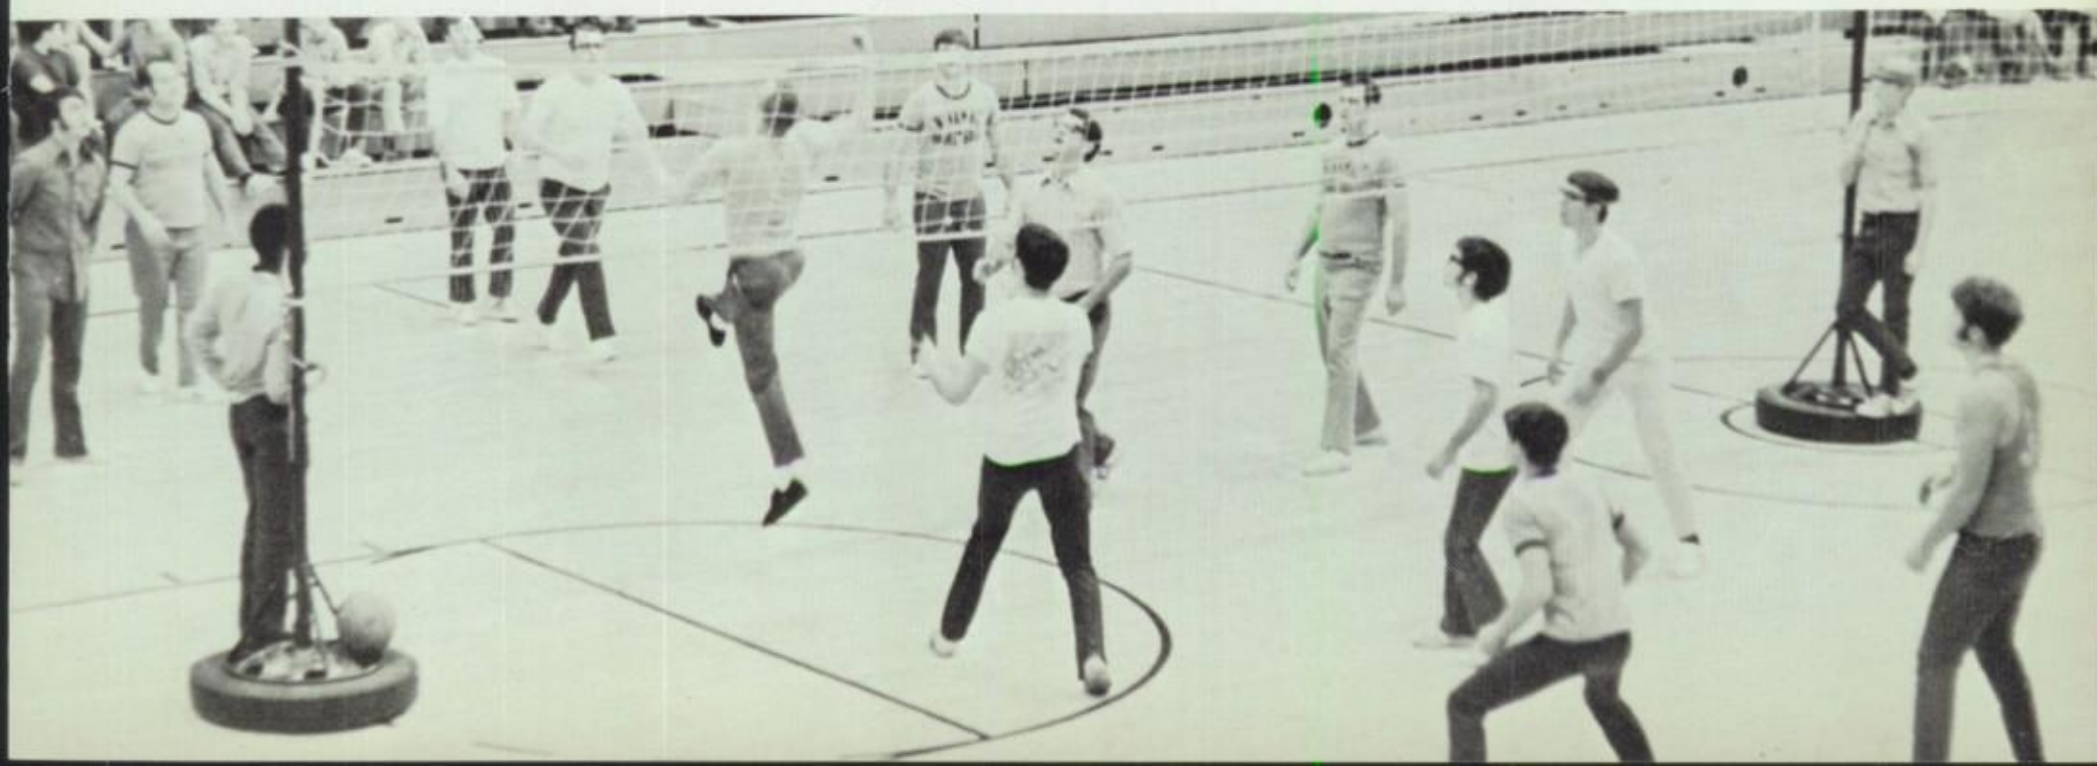

Two heads are better than one? Clint Henry and Pam Holmes join talents during the battle between the Seniors and Juniors at the Christmas activities.

The Intramural Council is responsible for getting "rid of our excess energy." They sponsored all noontime activities such as: volleyball, basketball, and any other indoor sport. They also organized the Christmas afternoon program, where teachers and students matched coordination.

The Council this year was run by president Tim Roth and Mrs. Hughes, sponsor, with the help of many other willing members.

At the Christmas activities the men teachers competed against the Phum Duckers II, the school champions of the boys' teams.

Before the season started, most individuals believed that 1971-72 would be a rebuilding year for the Winamac Warriors basketball team. Lacking an outstanding superstar, the general consensus was that Winamac should have a .500 or worse season. Winamac demonstrated that teamwork is necessary by placing four, five, and sometimes six men in double figures. Led by seniors Tim Roth and Duane Dickensheets and junior Jerry Cords, the Warriors compiled a 12-9 won-loss record and executed upsets over Logansport and North Judson.

with Many Qualifying for the Sectional

The WCHS track team had a fairly successful season this year. They won three dual meets and lost one. In triangular meets they had a record of one and one. The team placed fifth in the Delphi Relays, third in the Rochester Relays, and third in the conference meet.

Seven boys qualified for the sectional this year: Jerry Cords in the 440, pole vault, and mile relay; Brad Crawford in the long jump, mile relay, and the 220; Fred Nolting in the 880 and mile relay; Terry Schultz in the shot put; Mike Smith in the mile relay; Jeff Compton in the mile; and Tim Powers in the two mile. Jerry Cords also qualified for the regional.

School records were set in the mile relay (Jerry Cords, Fred Nolting, Brad Crawford, Mike Smith), sprint medley relay (Cords, Nolting, Crawford, Jack Burger), two-mile relay (Nolting, Jeff Compton, Jim Peterson, Bruce Hughes), 440 (Jerry Cords), and the two-mile (Tim Powers).

The industrious track team practices long and hard in preparation for their various meets.

The 1972 baseball team at WCHS consisted of twenty-three players and the guiding hand of Coach Jack Hendryx. This year was quite unusual because for most of the season rain prevented our great Warriors from "playing ball."

The team ended a late season having several cancellations because of rain or flooded ball diamonds. Terry Schultz, a senior, hit the most home runs this season. Our pitchers were Terry Housinger, Rick Fox, and Mick Parcel who did a great job for the team.

John slugs the ball with all his might to help the Warriors.

Largest Golf Team In History of WCHS

The 1972 golf team, although somewhat inexperienced, was the largest team in the history of WCHS. Inexperience soon dwindled and the team managed to get it all together and was able to come out of the season with a fine record. The team of 13 members finished fourth in the Conference meet.

PERSONALITY

Our superintendent, Mr. Cords, stops for a moment in his busy day.

Mr. Kasamis, our hard-working principal, pauses to flash a smile for the camera.

A D M I N I S T R A T I O N

Secretaries in Mr. Kasamis' office are Mrs. Chrzan, Mrs. Behny, and Mrs. Skillen. They assist Mr. Kasamis on many tasks.

Mr. Hoffman is a new teacher at WCHS as he teaches the pre-vocational class.

Mrs. Warner and Mr. Irven are the students' advisors as they guide them through their high school lives.

Ad v i s o r s

The Faculty of Winamac Community High

Mrs. Shorter and Miss Krapf serve the students and teachers with resources in the library.

Mrs. Fritz and Mrs. Hughes supply everyone with all sorts and sizes of audiovisual aids.

Educate and Lead to Meet Our Future Needs

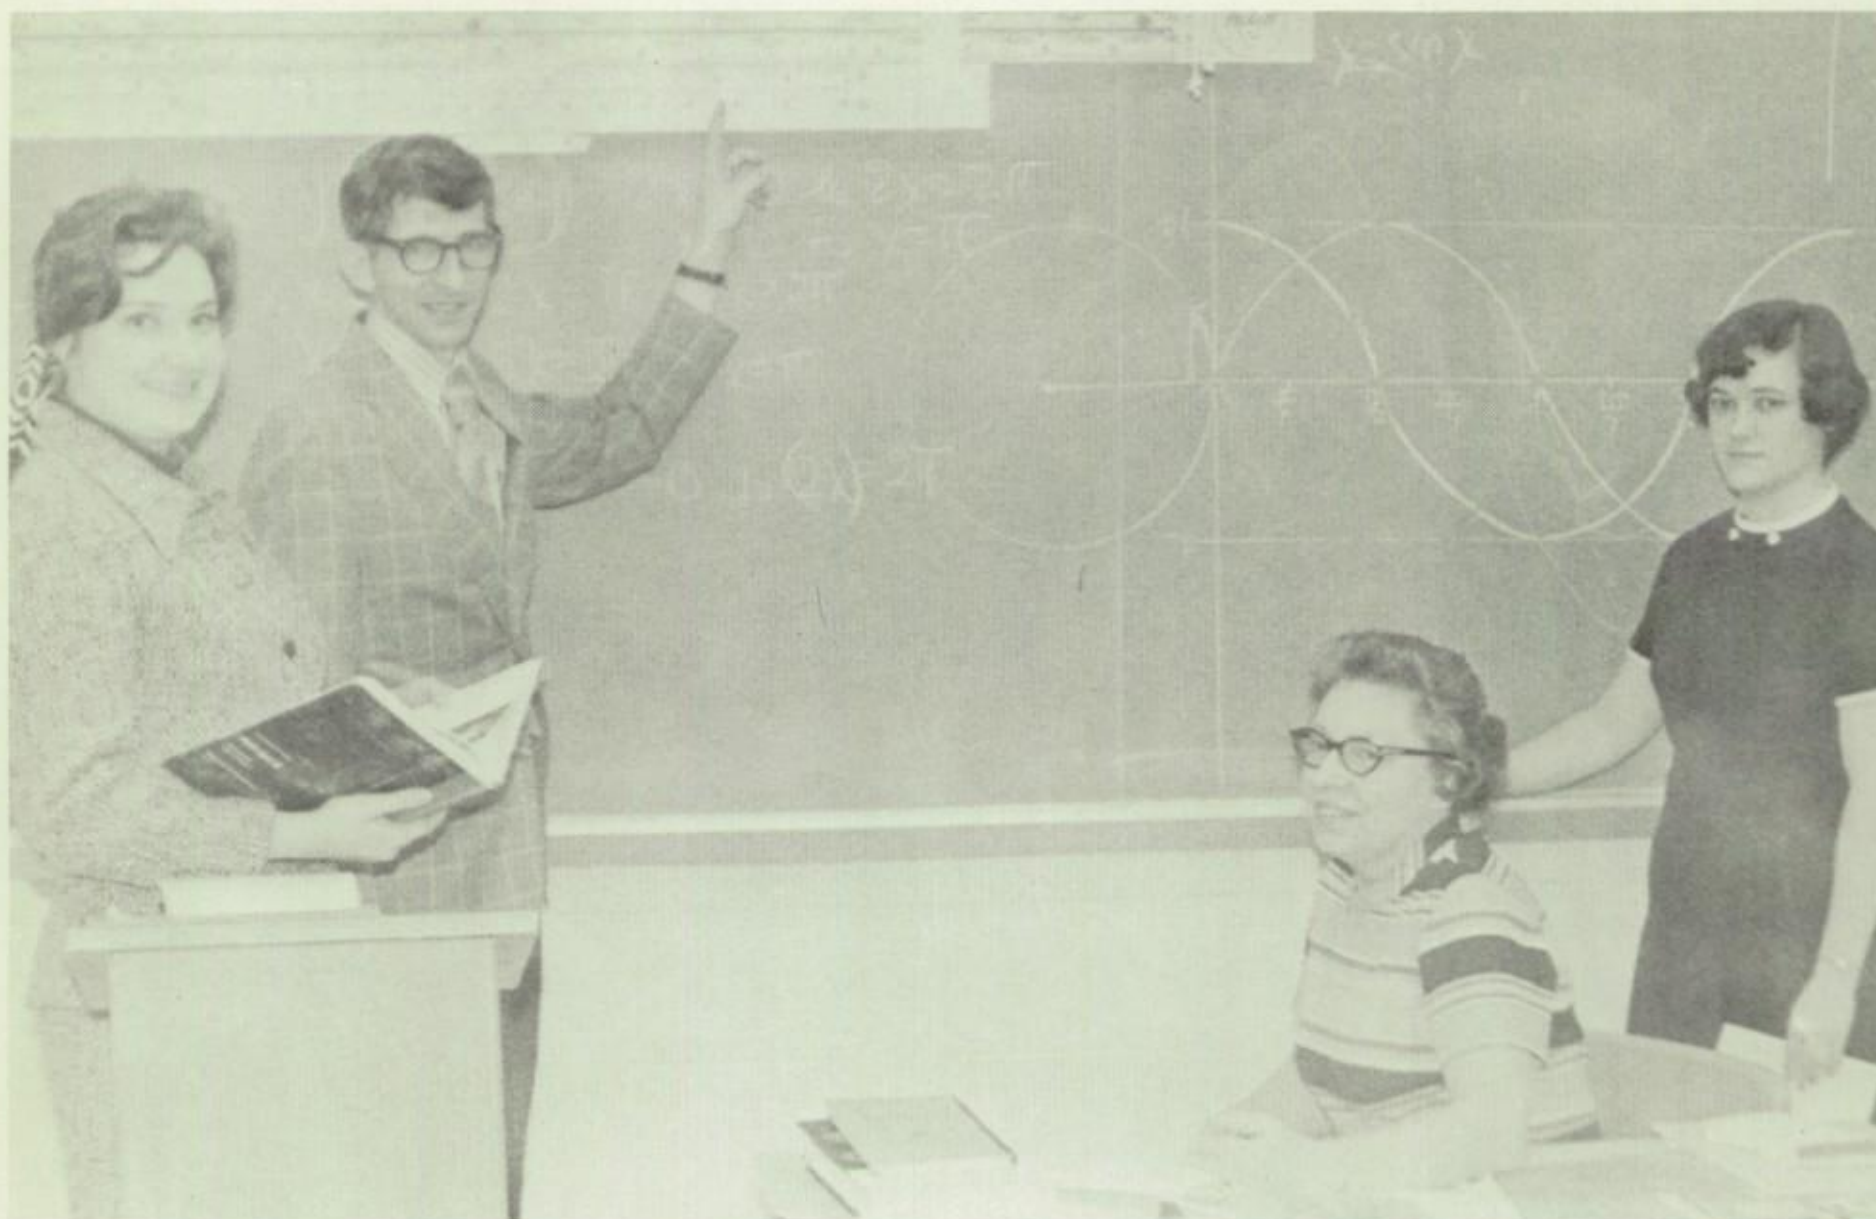

Mrs. Stoudt, Mrs. Nale, Mrs. Thompson, Mr. Pugh, Mr. Warner, and Mrs. Rouch introduce the high school to American and English literature and grammar.

Mrs. Nale and Mr. Kramer travel with the students to Latin and Spanish cultures around the world.

Mathematicians and Scientists Around WCHS

Mr. Stauffer, Miss Lucas, and Mr. Wentz help the future scientists explore the world around them.

History is their business! Mr. Hendryx, Mr. March, and Mr. Moore taught social studies.

Day to Day, Week to Week, Month to Month These Teachers Guide Us Through School

These expert secretaries—Mrs. Stoudt, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Wagner, and Mr. VanArsdall—teach inexperienced but future great secretaries.

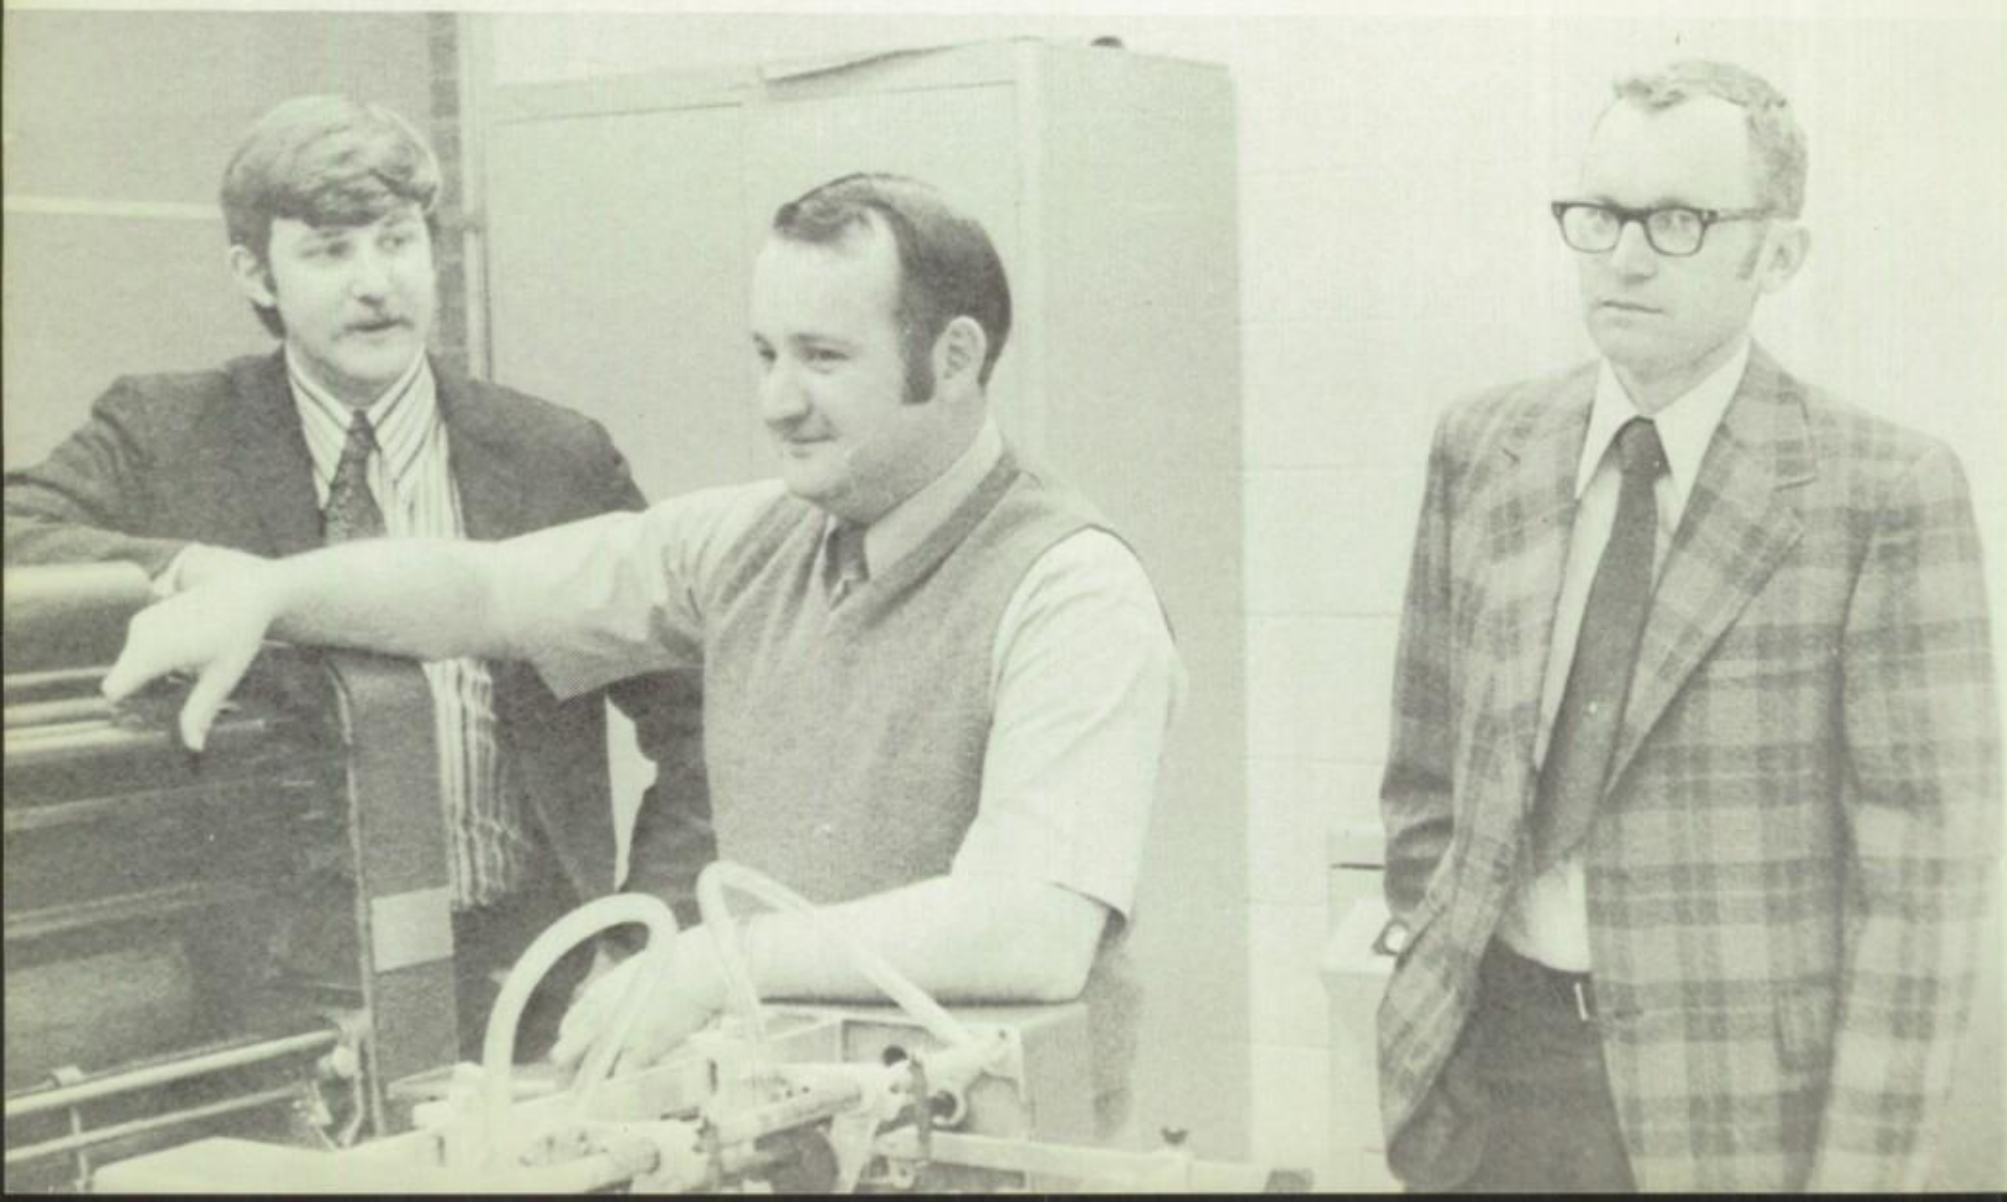

The Knowledge Provided By Our Teachers

Sewing and cooking become interesting when Mrs. Wagner and Mrs. Moyer are on the scene.

Mr. Duncan, Mr. Kroft, and Mr. Jones teach their specialties of shop, agriculture, and graphic arts.

Will Be With Us All Through Our Lives

What does physical education mean? Ask Miss Clark or Mr. Heath.

Mr. Krasner, Miss Myers, and Mr. Matthews promote fine arts around WCHS.

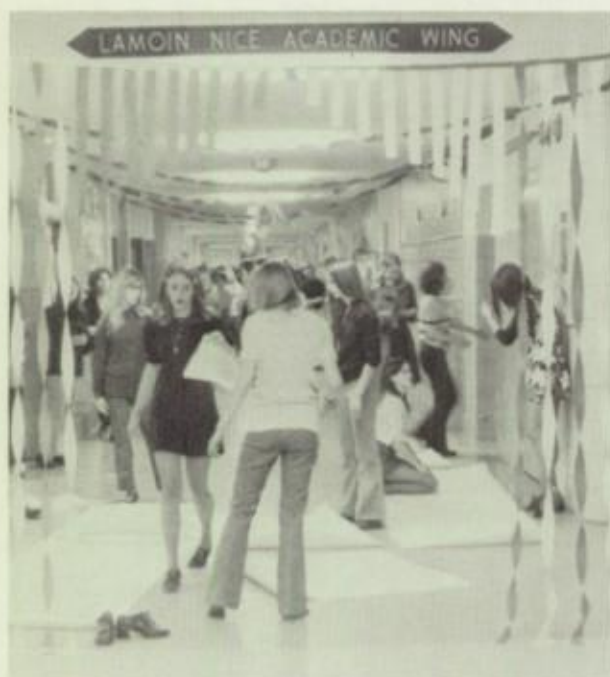

As We Complete Our Journey . . .

Around WCHS in 180 days, we feel the memories have become a lasting part of us. The prom, sectional week, semester exams, organizational activities, and classes are all behind us, but the friends we've made and the fun we've had are forever instilled in us.

Many mixed emotions were displayed graduation week: anguish for semester exams, weariness at Baccalaureate and Commencement practice, joy with no more lessons, sorrow at the thought of leaving our friends, and finally THE NIGHT. Some tears and some smiles were part of May 21, 1972, a day to remember always—as was the year 1972.
